On the Line—

Are You Forecast Happy?

WE'VE been criticized for "passing up a golden opportunity," because we failed to publish a business forecast for 1955 in our January issue. "Even our home town paper published forecasts by industry leaders," one reader complained.

Another got off to an eloquent start: "When all other forecasters were crying in their beer last January, you slapped them down," said he. "... You put your forecast 'On the Line,' and hit it right on the nose."

Then he proceeded to hit us: "Was it an accident? Are you afraid your luck won't hold out?"

(Father said there would be times like this!)

Dear critics (you dopes), here's our reply:

1. Forget our last year's forecast. It was made in a fit of anger, because we knew the forecasters were wrong. They were so wrong we were afraid their forecasts might harm some of our readers; which they did, our contradiction notwithstanding.

2. We think that general business forecasts, the type commonly found in newspapers and periodicals, are useless for men in Distribution; and for most other men, too.

For freight solicitors, sales managers, transportation and warehouse operators they could be dangerous. They even have limited value for bankers, investors and industrial executives.

Most of us might get more benefit reading the comics or the sports page. (Better still: Read DA!)

By way of explaining our eccentric attitude, let's tell you about a warehouseman within walking distance of this office: He read and believed last year's gloomy forecasts and stopped soliciting new business. Today, his place is half empty.

Then there's the fellow we talked to in Chicago last week: He paid no attention to any forecaster. He was too busy doing a better job than his competitors. In addition to filling his warehouse to capacity, he leased and filled 180,000 sq ft of new warehouse space during 1954!

It's like we said to one of our critics: The only forecast to which you should pay any serious attention is the one you make on self-improvement, and on your plant and service improvement.

If your company breaks all its records, it may do you no good—if you do not break your personal records, too. You'll be left behind, my friend, even if you have memorized every general business forecast published.

If your company has a set-back, and you have advanced, maybe you'll be elected president. Stranger things than that have happened in these wonderful United States!

Yakkety Yak

Not all of our mail last month was critical. A fine old gentleman of the old school, commenting on our January Editorial, "A Resolution," sent us the following as his inspiration for his 1955 resolution:

"Push," said the button.

"Take pains," said the window.

"Never be led," said the pencil.

"Keep cool," said the water cooler.

"Be up to date," said the calendar.

"Keep plugging," said the electric cord.

"Soak up more knowledge," said the blotter.

"Bright ideas will put the spotlight on you," said the desk lamp.

"It's later than you think," said the clock.

FINE FAKE FOODS: Under the heading of things to come, don't be skeptical when you see an advertisement or a sign in a food market reading, "Our meat balls are made of the best quality sunflower seeds and pecans."

... Or, "Our scallops contain only the finest gluten and vegetable protein."

... We haven't tasted any of these items as yet, but they're reported to be "the most."

SHORT CUTS: Speaking of foods, hats off to Wilson for its half-size bacon slices. Sure ought to be a boon for campers and backyard barbecue chefs, like us.

Insurance—Compensation

To The Editor:

Reference is made to your column "Within the Law," appearing in a recent issue of DISTRIBUTION AGE where in you state:

"... all state laws provide that in the event the employer fails to keep posted notice of insurance he has, no employee shall be deemed to have accepted the provisions of the workmen's compensation law and the employee may either accept compensation under the act or sue the employer, based upon common-law negligence for damages."

The above referred to quotation evoked considerable interest on the part of several of my associates and we have been unable to find any provision in the Minnesota Workmen's Compensation Act which would bear out your statement insofar as Minnesota is concerned.

GEORGE M. STEPHENSON
Attorney

F. H. Peavey & Co.
Minneapolis 15, Minn.

Probably the statement "all state laws provide" should have been more explicit in explaining that either state laws or higher court decisions require the employer to post proper notices or otherwise give employees proper notice of insurance protection or its limitations.

It is quite important, of course, for all employers to strictly follow all phases of the law relating to the State Workmen's Compensation Act. For example, I am familiar with a late case in which an employee was awarded only $2,500 compensation under the State Workmen's Compensation Act for loss of an eye. See Curtis, 270 Pac. (2d) 315.

For comparison, see 263 Pac. (2d) 879, where a court awarded $65,000 damages for injuries to a heel bone; 264 S. W. (2d) 518, where the court awarded $82,000 damages for fractures of a shoulder; 48 Atl. (2d) 389, $85,000 damages for amputation of legs; 117 Fed. Supp. 903, $150,000 damages for paralyzed legs; 127 N.Y.S. (2d) 221, $45,000 damages for a toe injury; 68 So. (2d) 406, $225,360 damages for leg injury; 203 Fed. (2d) 138, $125,000 damages for being maimed; etc.

Quite obviously, allowable compensation under the State Workmen's Compensation Act may have been considerably less in either of these cases.

I shall make special effort in the future to locate new higher court decisions from the Advance Sheets on this subject of law at which time I shall publish the relevant cases in DA.—Leo T. Parker, DA Consultant.

ORDERS SURCHARGE DROPPED—ICC tells truckers operating between central U. S. points to cancel their $1.50 surcharge on freight shipments of less than 5,000 lb. Deadline for cancellation is March 15. ICC is permitting, as a substitute, a $1 increase in the minimum charge per shipment and rate increases on shipments under 5,000 lb.

BID DATES REVEALED—Future advertising dates for bids on work connected with the new U.S.-Canadian water shipping route are disclosed by the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. Dates include Grass River Lock excavation, Feb. 15; Long Sault Canal excavation and dike construction, March 15; and Thousand Islands section channel dredging, June 15, 1956.

GIVE CONTRACT RULING—Employers have the right to repudiate "hot cargo" clauses in management-labor contracts, a recent NLRB ruling makes clear. The same decision upholds the legality of these clauses. They permit union employees in one firm to refuse to handle freight moving to or from another firm, if the employees consider the second firm "unfair."

RECORDS STUDY BEGINS—Purpose of a new survey of ICC records management practices is to produce greater economy and efficiency in the agency. A private firm retained by the government is performing the project, dealing with storage and use of existing records and aimed at reducing the volume and complexity of future records.

ASKS LONGER SERVICE—ICC has a request from Isbrandtsen Co., Inc., for authority to extend its steamship service. The firm wishes to schedule cargo and passenger runs on a year-round basis from certain Atlantic to Pacific cities. Isbrandtsen now is permitted to provide service seven months of the year from five East Coast ports to points in California south of Eureka.

CLIMB IN CONTAINERS—Government officials anticipate a near-record output of industrial containers this year. In 1954, production was only about 5 per cent below the peak level achieved one year earlier. Supplies of packaging materials will be plentiful, with pulp, paper, and paperboard manufacture rising to an all-time high of at least 27 million tons.

SAFETY SCORE BETTER—Highway freight carriers reported an improved safety record to ICC for the first eight months of 1954, compared with the same period in 1953. ICC figures show total truck accidents declined from 19,363 to 15,911 and property damage mishaps from 12,468 to 10,266. Fatalities dropped from 1,014 to 774; property damage costs decreased from $21 million to $18 million.

REPAIR GOAL HIGHER—More vessel reconditioning will be performed in this fiscal year under the Emergency Ship Repair Program than Maritime Administration first estimated. The agency now says 70 ships, instead of the 54 originally planned, can be repaired with the current $12 million appropriation. Competitive bidding for the work has been close, holding unit costs down.

RATE TASK SHIFTED—Independent action in the freight rate field is taken by the Air Force in line with a recent policy change. That service now negotiates its special transportation rates, relieving the Army of the job. Responsibility for negotiating Section 22 rates is placed with the Chief, Transportation and Packaging Div., Headquarters, Air Materiel Command, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, O.

WILL VIEW RAILROADS—Transportation officials from eight foreign countries will arrive in the U. S. this year to study railroad facilities and operations. A continuing government program provides for the visit of nearly 100 officials from the Americas, Europe, and Asia. Foreign observers have participated in the program since 1950.

PLAN BIGGER AIRLIFT—Cargo airlift capability of the Air Force is scheduled for a 50 per cent increase by 1960 and a boost to double or triple its present size by 1965. Military planners say air cargo carriers of the future are to be designed for exclusive use as materials transporters and will not be intended as part-time passenger planes.

REFUSES RATE SLICE—Freight rates on barge shipments from Baton Rouge, La., to upstream points on the Mississippi and its tributaries are sustained by an ICC ruling. The agency rejects a complaint that the Louisiana port loses its geographic advantage by rate parity with New Orleans, 112 miles downstream. ICC holds that New Orleans enjoys no "undue advantage" from the parity.

Cut Transit Time • Save Money ship via PORT OF SAN FRANCISCO

42 deep-water piers...
12½ miles of ship-berth space.

More shippers use the Port of San Francisco because it provides:

1. Higher sailing frequency — 112 lines serving 264 world ports.
2. Shortest trans-Pacific route among California ports. With few exceptions San Francisco is final port outbound and first port inbound. This can save days in transit time.
3. Unsurpassed cargo handling facilities — specially developed terminals for grain, copra, cotton and refrigeration.
4. 14 acre foreign trade zone.
5. Invaluable business advantages due to San Francisco's position as commercial capital of the West in banking, insurance, finance, consular representation, communications, transportation.

Above Pier 30-32, newest of the quay-type facilities, combines former finger piers into unified ship-rail-truck terminal for fastest transfer of cargo.

Below Pier 50, Mission Rock Terminal, largest overwater wharf on the Pacific Coast... 29 acres of covered and open area... berths 8 large vessels at once.

CB&FAofA Files Protest

Acting on the basis of the ruling contained in the Bureau of Customs' Special Circular Number X-99, the Customs Brokers and Forwarders Association of America, Inc., has filed a strong protest with the Bureau, which the CBFAA charged with having "exceeded its authority."

The ruling denies the privilege of free withdrawal of goods subject ordinarily to duty and internal revenue tax (such as cigarettes and liquor) to vessels engaged in the fisheries, except in such cases where vessels touch at a foreign port as part of their voyages.

An increase of 1.4 per cent in the number of cars loaded with freight in the first quarter of 1955 compared with the same period in 1954 was estimated last month by the 13 regional Shippers Advisory Boards.

Approval of the essentiality and U. S. flag service requirements of 15 United States overseas trade routes have been announced by Louis S. Rothschild, Maritime Administrator. The Routes are numbered 1, 2, 6, 8, 11, 12, 13, 15-A, 15-B, 18, 19, 21, 22, 24, and 31. Determinations regarding the remaining routes and the Round-the-World service are expected to be completed early in the current year.

Tandem Test

To secure evidence as to the durability of the rubber and nylon parts in Fruehauf Trailer Co.'s new tandem axle-suspension, a rigid test was devised which subjected the tandem to 31,000 free drops from a height of from 4-6 in. from the ground, with a load of 36,000 lb of steel and concrete. The rubber parts were given maximum deflection and it is estimated that the tests represented the equivalent of more than 100,000 miles of actual service

NITL Seeks Sec. 22 Equity

The National Industrial Traffic League on Jan. 3 filed with the ICC a brief seeking equity of rates in the handling of government traffic.

As stated in the brief, the League "strongly urges that all transportation by common carriers for the United States should be governed by rates and charges set forth in published tariffs and excepting for extraordinary movements should be at so-called commercial rates, fares or charges the same as paid by shippers generally. To that end the opening exemption of Section 22 should be repealed with such further amendments as may be appropriate and necessary to accomplish these objectives."

Associated Equipment Distributors Meeting

The newly-organized, 24-man committee, representing construction equipment manufacturers and distributors, recently held its meeting in Chicago, Ill. This intra-industry advisory group studies problems which confront distributors and manufacturers, and makes recommendations relative to the solution of the problems

Fold-Back Forks

A fork truck is used by Northern Indiana Public Service Co. to solve an unusual materials handling problem at the Company's Gary, Ind., warehouse. This truck has been equipped with special modified forks that makes it possible for it to fit into even smaller places. The forks fold back over the truck permitting it to be lifted to other floors by elevator

Shipping Problems Forum

American shipping operators in the deep-sea domestic trade of the United States have been invited to Washington to discuss problems of their industry, according to Louis S. Rothschild, chairman, Federal Maritime Board.

The conferences are in connection with a study of domestic shipping being made jointly by the Maritime Administration and the Office of the Undersecretary of Commerce for Transportation. The first meeting, scheduled for Jan. 25, dealt with problems of coast-wise and intercoastal transportation by dry cargo ships. Tank ship problems were discussed at the second meeting, Feb. 1.

C of C Publishes 'Transport Review and Outlook For 1954-55'; Intercity Freight Traffic Down 7%

A "Transport Review and Outlook—1954-55," published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, shows an overall drop in intercity freight traffic of an estimated 7 per cent. (see chart.) Barge and petroleum pipe lines, however, continued to chalk up all-time high percentages.

While truck traffic held about even, both railroads and Great Lakes' shipping companies experienced sharp drops, with the relative share of rail ton-miles falling slightly below 50 per cent for the first time. It is interesting to note that unregulated carriers operating in the truck and barge fields

Inland Waterways—Great Lakes traffic drops sharply by 22 per cent, but should gain next year with rise in steel output. Barge traffic at record 80 billion ton-miles in 1954.

Ocean Shipping—Cargo volume slightly better than 1953 and should improve slightly next year, due largely to law requiring 50 per cent of foreign-aid cargoes to move on private ships. Merchant fleet down 100 ships, most of which are paper transfers to foreign flags. Shipbuilding industry depressed, but outlook better because of new laws aimed at its stimulation. St. Lawrence Seaway

Estimated 1954 Intercity Freight Traffic

Carrier*	Billions of Ton-Miles	% Change from 1953	% of 1954 Traffic
Railroad.....	550	-10	49.8
Truck.....	208	same	18.8
Oil Pipe Line.....	169	+ 2	15.3
Great Lakes.....	99	-22	8.9
Barge.....	80	+ 7	7.2
Total.....	1106	-7	100.0

showed traffic gains, while competing regulated trucks, barge companies, and railroads reported losses.

Following is a brief resume of the various phases covered:

International Transport—American-flag air carriers found 1954 a very good year, with sizeable gains in passenger-miles, mail and cargo over 1953. The merchant marine also gained slightly in the amount of total U. S. foreign water-borne commercial trade handled.

Aviation—Mail traffic up sharply, with expanded first-class mail air service pointing to further gains. Express and freight traffic gains 6 per cent.

Highways—Record highway spending in 1954 by all government levels. Majority for construction. Federal aid increased by $300 million. Toll road boom continues. President's highway program may call for continuation of present federal-aid program plus substantial increase in federal funds for the interstate highway system over the next ten years.

approved and work ready to begin.

Petroleum Pipe Lines—New all-time highs, with traffic above 1953 by almost 2 per cent and revenues by 3 per cent. Gains should be at least this much next year.

Railroads—Freight traffic down 10 per cent to 550 billion ton-miles, going below 50 per cent of total for first time. Lagging expenses drops operating income by 27 per cent and return on investment to 3 per cent. Capital expenditures of 800 million 36 per cent below 1953, and next year will be lower. Freight car output down sharply. Gains in piggyback service favorable to date.

Trucking—All truck traffic up very slightly to 208 billion ton-miles. May go to 216 billion next year. Regulated truck traffic down about 5 per cent. Truck and trailer production down 19 and 43 per cent, but both expect higher output next year. New trailer pool in midwest. Major problem still is disagreement among states over proper method of taxing trucks for use of highways. Trucking by mail outlook good.

Joint Policy Unit Formed

A joint policy board, to be known as the Council of Rail and Truck Common Carriers, has been formed by railroad and trucking companies located east of the Mississippi River. The Council will work toward the reconciliation of issues between the two groups of carriers. Walter J. Tuohy, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, and chairman of the newly formed organization, said that the group will meet on Feb. 7, "at which time specific problems will be discussed." Tuohy emphasized that the new group represents the Eastern part of the country only.

ATA Scores Splinter Groups

A resolution which would deny recognition to splinter groups professing to speak for the trucking industry was recommended last month to the executive committee of ATA by Neil J. Curry, president. Exceptions to the ban would be granted only when ATA was fully informed of the aims of such groups prior to their organization and when industry need is shown great enough to warrant the approval of ATA's executive committee or board of directors.

32.6% PAYLOAD GAIN "Since putting 10 Volume★Vans into service, we have found an increase in loading on two important accounts, where the freight is lightweight in character but very profitable to our operation. In one case the increase per trailer is from 19,000 to 23,000 lbs., a gain of 21%; in the other from 9,800 to 13,000, a gain of 32.6%."

D. G. DALBY, President
Denver-Amarillo Express, Amarillo, Texas

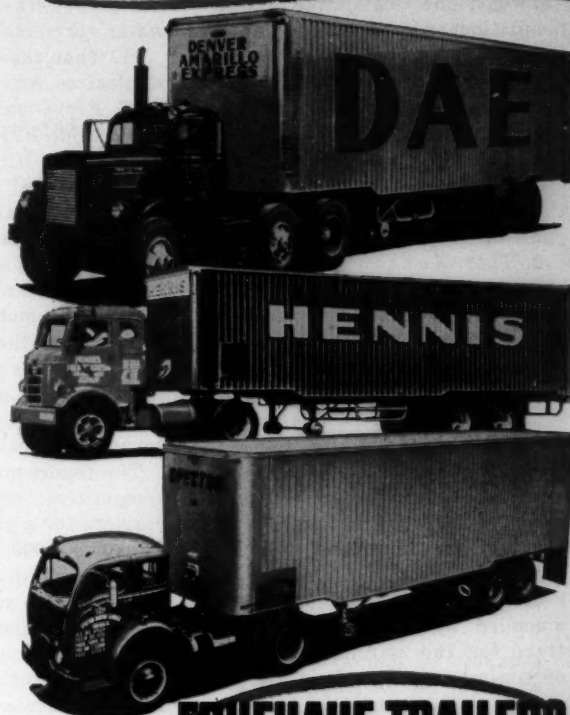

25% INCREASE IN TONNAGE "After operating our 90 Volume★Vans for four months, we have recorded a 25% increase in tonnage hauled with a marked decrease in road miles traveled. This provides us with greater use of our power equipment in addition to gains in trailer efficiency."

S. H. MITCHELL, President
Hennis Freight Lines, Inc., Winston-Salem, N.C.

BEST POSSIBLE INVESTMENT "The Volume★Van's additional inside height provides up to 30 or 35% more cubic content on some loads. And the 91"-wide rear doors make it possible to accept loads we could never have taken before. In my opinion, the Volume★Van is the best investment a for-hire carrier can make."

ICC Releases 68th Annual Report to Congress; Report Includes 21 Legislative Recommendations

Twenty-one legislative recommendations were included in the ICC's 68th Annual Report to Congress, released by the ICC last month. A breakdown of some of the recommendations follows:

1. That Section 1 be amended to make car service provisions therein applicable to express companies.

2. That Section 1 (15) be amended to authorize the ICC thereunder to determine the compensation to be paid and other terms of any contract for the use of any locomotive, car or other vehicle not owned by the carrier using it.

3. That Section 15 (13) be amended to prohibit payment to shippers for spotting service, except by agreement, and with ICC approval.

5. That Section 20a (2) be amended by including any contract for the purchase or lease of equipment not to be fully performed within one year from the date of contract.

8. That Section 22 be amended to enable the United States and the carriers to bargain as to rates on a firm and dependable basis.

9. That Section 22 be amended by adding a section containing provisions for revocation of water-carrier certificates or permits.

10. That Section 402 (b) (2) be amended to terminate the exemption of freight forwarders of used household goods.

11. That Section 402 (c) be amended to make the exemption of shippers' associations and agents revocable where it is found that the operation is not that of a bona fide association or agent.

15. Amendments which would make a common carrier by motor vehicle and freight forwarders liable for the payment of damages to persons injured by them through violation of the act.

16. That the ICC be given emergency powers over motor and water carriers.

17. That the Transportation of Explosives Act be rewritten.

18. Provision that suits brought to set aside ICC orders be brought against the ICC, rather than the United States.

19. That Section 409 be amended to (1) place the burden of proof on parties to contracts between freight forwarders and common carriers by motor vehicle subject to Part II of the Act; (2) prohibit such contracts at lower than motor tariffs in distances over 450 miles; (3) provide penalties for rebates, concessions, etc.

The report noted an increase in competitive activity among the carriers for a greater share of the $17,100,000,000 paid them for transporting passengers and freight in the year ended 6/30/54.

The Commission reported the total revenues were divided among eight types of carriers, with the railroads accounting for the biggest share but showing a decline from their relative position a year earlier. Total revenues of the eight groups also declined.

The railroads had revenues of $10,320,352,000, or 60.4 per cent of the total. Motor carriers had revenues of $4,807,055,000 or 28.1 per cent.

Data for the other six classes of carriers follow: Oil pipelines, $603,669,000, or 3.5 per cent; motor carriers of passengers, $570,268,000, or 3.4 per cent; water carriers, $382,339,000, or 2.2 per cent; Railway Express, $234,420,000, or 1.4 per cent; Pullman Co., $104,054,000, or 0.6 per cent; Electric railways, $75,005,000, or 0.4 per cent.

The Commission also reported that freight forwarding companies had revenues of $368.5 million but paid slightly more than 75 per cent of this amount to other carriers for transportation services.

Our Charter Air Service Needs a New Approach

FEBRUARY, 1955
Vol. 54, No. 2

Development of a charter air service devoted to plane-load movement would be complementary to, but not competitive with, the individual ticket and less-plane-load cargo service provided by present airlines

By John H. Frederick
DA Transportation Consultant

FOR more than three years the CAB has been studying activities of the irregular or "non-sked" air carriers. What will come of this in the way of Board orders still is uncertain, but the record seems to indicate two things:

1. There is little likelihood of granting certificates to any of the "non-skeds" who now have applied to operate regularly scheduled, route-type, individual ticket passenger or less-plane-load cargo service.

2. There is a strong possibility that an entirely new type of air carrier may be created to provide bona fide charter service in plane-load lots only.

During the last few years there has been increasing demand for a service devoted to plane-load movement. In fact, over 57 per cent of all flights so far operated by the "non-skeds" have been plane-load charter operations, with a substantial demand for such operations from business and the military.

The real charter potential has not been tapped. Much of this is reflected by the general business flying segment of air transportation.

In 1952, for example, 60,000 aircraft in this category flew 8.2 million hours, or about 972 million plane-miles; twice the volume of the domestic scheduled airlines.

These aircraft flew only 138 hours each on the average per year, or less than half an hour daily.

Certificated airlines, by reason of their established position, are sought out in the first instance by groups interested in chartering aircraft. They are seldom in a position to fill the demand. In a recent year, one airline had over 1300 requests, without solicitation, for domestic charters but could only accommodate around 200.

As a general rule the certificated carriers, because of their route requirements are not staffed for, and, consequently, do not actively solicit, charter business. The result is that scheduled airlines often have made use of the "non-skeds" for charter operations when unable to fill the demand themselves.

In addition to the unfilled civilian charter needs, the Department of Defense utilizes both scheduled and non-scheduled air carriers for movements of military passengers and cargo on a charter basis. Such charter services, during the past three or four years, have varied in nature from individual charter flights to extended contract operations.

Generally, so far as cargo is concerned, the Department of Defense distinguishes between contract and charter operations, the former involving a definite commitment to a specified volume of operations for a substantial period of time, and the latter generally involving only one flight or a small number of flights.

Charter flights may be booked at individual bases, either domestic or overseas. The major contract operations may involve either passengers or cargo.

Such military charter business cost the tax payers some $92 million in 1953 and, while the "non-sked" carriers represent only about 5 per cent of the existing air carrier facilities, they provided nearly 45 per cent of the total airlift for the military.

There is clearly a place and a need in the air transport industry for a group of carriers specializing in charter services to fill vital peacetime and wartime requirements, both for industry and the military. The greatest single advantage of such a class of carriers would be its inherent flexibility.

The equipment of scheduled operators is tied down quite rigidly to serving certificated points. It would be uneconomical for them to maintain a large amount of standby equipment and, while some fa-

Realistic Rate-Making Po

Freight rate structures are failing to yield adequate net revenue, despite a 78.9% increase

IT IS apparent that freight rate structures, of railroads and motor carriers in particular, are failing to yield adequate net revenues despite successive freight rate increases since 1938, which have raised the rate level by 78.9 per cent.

Minor adjustments of railroad freight rates have been ineffectual in checking materially the diversion of traffic to other modes of transportation. Moreover, the types of carriers to which the traffic has been attracted do not appear to have derived the benefits, revenue-wise, in proportion to the quantities of traffic diverted.

Indications are sufficiently strong to suggest that the difficulty is that the different type carriers are not obtaining the traffic in which they have comparative economic advantages.

Burden on the Shipper

Shippers are called upon to pay increasingly high freight rates without benefiting the carriers in proportion to their contributions. This situation cannot continue, particularly in a highly competitive buyers' market in which increased freight rates cannot be passed on to successive buyers—nor can they be absorbed by the sellers.

The nature and extent of competition among carriers of different types is indicated by the fact that all bulk commodities, comprising about 70 per cent of domestic traffic, are competed for by railroads; coastwise, intercoastal, Great Lakes and inland waterway common and contract water carriers; petroleum pipe lines; and motor carriers.

By G. Lloyd Wilson
*Professor of Transportation
University of Pennsylvania*

The competition of the natural gas pipe lines is felt by all carriers of solid fuels.

Railroads, Railway Express, freight forwarders, motor carriers, air lines, and the parcel post service compete vigorously for the relatively small volume of merchandise package traffic which constitutes only a small percentage of total traffic.

For manufacturers and miscellaneous traffic, comprising nearly 30 per cent of all freight, the railroads, highway common and contract carriers, water common carriers, air lines, and air cargo carriers are in keen competition.

The competition among carriers of different types is intensified and extended by services embracing combinations of several different types of carriers at joint through rates or combination rates. The intensity of inter-agency competition has resulted in there being very little "captive traffic," which is forced to use a particular type of carrier either because of geographic location or the nature of the commodity.

Basic Assumptions

This discussion is not directed to the problems of cost ascertainment or to suggest precise rates which should be charged for particular hauls of specific traffic. These questions are not to be minimized. They present difficult problems of cost ascertainment and joint cost distribution.

Difficult technical problems of rate relationships among producers, markets and commodities also are posed. But these problems are present in any case whether the principles of rates are sound or not.

It is not too improbable that, if the principles upon which freight rates were constructed were properly conceived and stated, the detailed problems of rate adjustment might be simplified and clarified. To this end, a brief statement of three basic principles are displayed in the box on the opposite page.

Matter of Judgment

Traditionally, freight rates have been made by the application of judgment with respect to what the traffic will bear; considering cost, comparison and compromise. The more knowledge of cost behavior available, the more confidently rates and charges can be made with the knowledge that they are compensatory.

With greater knowledge of cost behavior in different modes of transportation—for hauls of different distances, of different commodities, in different units of movement, and in different types of transportation vehicles—rate makers of the carriers and industries could exercise more valid judgment in making comparisons of one rate with other different commodities, for different hauls and regions.

Also, the representatives of carriers and industries, fortified by more accurate knowledge of cost behavior, would be in a better position to bargain with each other and effect compromises.

Basic Rate-Making Principles

1. Charges for transportation services of the same kinds should be applied impartially

Rates made by carriers should be open to all who can use them under the reasonable conditions imposed with respect to unit quantities, types of goods, distance, packaging and protection. Impartiality or equity in rate making implies that all shippers will be charged the same rates with respect to shipments made under similar circumstances and conditions. It does not imply, however, that the same rates or charges must be identically the same if the units of shipment, type of goods, regularity of movement, or other material circumstances and conditions actually are different.

2. Rates of carriers of each type should cover as a minimum, out-of-pocket costs

The total of all rates should yield revenues adequate to cover all elements of economic cost adequate to insure that a fair return upon the capital invested will be sufficient to attract the capital necessary to maintain an adequate transportation system of all types of carriers needed.

3. Carriers should establish rates based on their own service and cost characteristics

Identical rates and charges should be made for transportation services via different modes of transportation only when the costs of performing the services are covered at least with respect to out-of-pocket costs. It is economically unsound for a high-cost carrier to establish rates below his out-of-pocket costs to meet competition of a low-cost carrier.

Knowledge of cost behavior enables carriers to curtail or withdraw services which are non-compensatory. Units of traffic which will occupy the payload capacity of railroad freight cars, trucks, barges, vessels, pipe-lines or airplanes can be established.

Excepting for tradition, there are no good reasons why carriers of various types should make rates on small quantity shipments on the basis of rates per 100 lb. and with the same minimum charges; or carload, truckload or volume minimum rates upon the same sizes of shipping units.

A carload minimum weight or several rates at different minima, which are progressively lower as the unit of shipment approaches the weight and space carrying capacity of the different types of vehicles, are necessary to encourage shippers to utilize the capacity of the transportation vehicles to the extent feasible under commercial conditions; and to enable carriers to increase the ratio of payload to gross weight of vehicle and contents.

Marginal and Average Costs

A prominent British transportation economist recently stated a view in which this writer concurs: "When any measurable increase or decrease in traffic takes place, commensurate changes in cost must or can take place also; in other words, marginal costs (the cost of carrying additional traffic) are not nearly so different from average costs as supposed.

"Indeed, conditions are not infrequently such that marginal costs actually are well in excess of average cost. Therefore, to assume that it costs 'virtually nothing' to carry additional traffic is most dangerous."

Additional studies are needed to develop reliable cost data with respect to handling shipments of various commodities, quantities and distances via different modes of transportation to develop patterns of cost behavior which can be regarded as typical, or as norms, for rate determination.

Additions or arbitraries can be added from these norms to establish higher rates on traffic which can be transported with less efficiency or which is able to bear higher rates.

Conversely, factors or differentials can be deducted to establish lower rates upon traffic which can be carried more efficiently or which is unable to bear the normal or standard rates arrived at on the basis of cost considerations.

Vital Factors

It is suggested that, in establishing rates on a higher or lower basis than the normal or standard rates, consideration should be given to such factors as:

1. Density of the commodity;
2. Efficiency in loading to capacity;
3. Extra sizes requiring more expensive loading, unloading or stowability;
4. Perishability of the commodities with attendant risk of claims for spoilage or extra costs of protective services;
5. Fragility;
6. Danger to other commodities or carriers' facilities;

Economies in the movement of goods can be realized if management thinks in terms of physical distribution—not handling, layout, warehousing, traffic packaging, and control of materials separately—but as functions to be integrated into a single system, then coordinated organizationally and operationally under a single head

Coordination of the Traffic and H

MANAGEMENT, at last, seems to have recognized the expensive problem of moving goods to the ultimate consumer.

In recent years emphasis has been placed on excellence in productive facilities, with little thought to the movement of material. The initial step taken was an attack on the intra-plant movement of material. Now we are entering the phase of tying in the internal and external movement.

Physical Distribution

Before evaluating the relative position of the traffic man and the materials handling engineer, I would like to define the materials distribution function, which is evaluated in terms of the speed and economy with which finished goods move to the consumer. We prefer to use the term physical distribution since material moves only when subjected to physical effort or some other force.

Physical distribution is the control, storage, and movement of material and covers the shipment and receipt of raw material for processing, inter- and intra-plant movement, shipping to distribution centers, warehousing, and delivery.

Physical distribution of materials usually covers those phases of producing goods which add nothing to the value and much to the cost of the final product. Uncontrolled, they can be the difference between profit and loss. The importance of coordination cannot be overemphasized. The degree of coordination and the organizational level at which it is exerted must be determined. Before we can do this we must concern ourselves with the extent of the various functions to be coordinated.

Basically, there are three main functions concerned with physical distribution:

1. The Traffic Manager. He is primarily concerned with the external movement of material before and after it passes through the manufacturing process.
2. The Warehouse Superintendent. He may have other titles but his function is the receipt of goods, storage, delivery to processing, packing, and crating and shipping. Internal transportation normally reports to him.

It should be noted that both of the above are directly concerned with the "control, storage, and movement of material."

3. The Materials Handling Engineer. He has no direct concern with the control of the movement of material except in the solution of specific problems. His responsibility is usually limited to problems within the confines of the company property and subject to handling by company personnel.

Need for Coordination

The very nature of the three functions automatically gives rise to problems requiring coordination. Both the traffic and warehousing functions are concerned with and responsible for the direct flow of material into and out of the plant. They are constantly encountering requirements of detail which must be met immediately and not necessarily in the best way.

The materials handling engineer is concerned not with the details of what is in the flow but rather with the factors affecting it, their adverse effect, and the method of improvement. His approach is objective and his goal is overall improvement.

In our experience, the three functions may be found existing separately or in various degrees

Editor's Note: Mr. Cummings' paper was presented at a Working Conference in Chicago on Oct. 20 (see photograph on opposite page). The Conference was a joint undertaking of the Material Handling Institute, the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry, and the Traffic Club of Chicago. Mr. Waehner's remarks were published in the December issue of DA, see "Traffic and Transportation in Distribution," Page 24.

Handling Functions

of intermingling of responsibility. Usually the level is so low that adequate and practical coordination of the efforts of the three is impossible. Too many times the traffic function is reduced to the level of a shipping and receiving clerk or that of freight bill auditing.

I have seen several examples of this recently. One firm producing a single product in one facility had a yearly dollar volume well into the hundreds of millions. Its raw material and in-process inventories exceed $100 million. The traffic manager is below the executive level and has the supervision of the receiving function in which he has little interest. As a result, management is not informed of the traffic management problems of the company or advised on their solution.

Another company producing automotive accessories has the traffic man located some miles from the manufacturing facility. He has, in addition, the supervision of the tabulating equipment. A third, which produces a variety of sportswear items, has two traffic managers, shipping and receiving. Each is little more than a clerk.

In each of the above examples, the traffic function reported at such a low level that its influence on the policies of the company was nil. In two of the cases the line of authority went through the warehouse superintendent.

Consolidated Functions

One of our clients, Philips Gloeilampenfabrieken of the Netherlands, has realized the value of coordination at a high level and has taken steps in that direction. The traffic function and warehousing of goods ready for shipment have been consolidated under one head. The Technical Efficiency Organization, or Industrial Engineering Department, has assigned one engineer, trained in the principles of materials handling, to the problems of the department. When he works on those problems he is subject to the control of the department head.

Anyone concerned with the accumulation of shipments for export, especially to countries with unstable currencies, will readily see the value of coordination in this instance. The warehousing space required for the goods fluctuates with the ability of the country to receive and pay for goods. Goods are stored in increasing quantities until the border is open. Then speed of loading and movement is necessary. A coordinated effort makes this possible.

The materials handling engineer also may be so located or organization-wise that his effectiveness is limited. The following example will illustrate this condition. One large company has the materials handling engineer as a member of the central engineering staff. The plants are scattered from New England to California and from Illinois to Texas.

A general plan of materials handling improvement was developed a few years ago. Progress is being made, but very slowly. The main reason is that each plant manager requests assistance from the head of the central staff. The staff head, who is far removed from the operating firing lines, then must make a decision determining the priority of the various requests.

The result is that the materials handling man spends his time "putting out fires." General overall progress is low. Some plants have moved forward; others have not. Methods of handling at the various plants differ although the product is identical.

Coordination by a director of physical distribution of the overall operation would determine the priority of importance and allow the improvements at one plant to be immediately applied to identical operations in another.

Management Responsibility

Coordination of the common effort is a responsibility of the upper echelons of management. However, under the complexities of modern business, this coordina-

High-scoring techniques promote man-hour gain

THE MATERIALS handling system in operation at the Kraft Foods company's Peshtigo plant in Chicago is one that has proven extremely efficient in moving materials quickly, economically, and safely.

At the Peshtigo plant, where Kraft makes mayonnaise, salad dressings, and oleomargarine, the handling system uses two separate conveyor networks, one installed in 1951, and the other in 1939 when the plant was built. Both are complemented by a fleet of electric industrial trucks. The materials handling procedure involved in the processing of just one of these products—mayonnaise—is a good example of the company's use of the conveyor-truck combination.

'Operation Speed'

Incoming cartons of empty glass jars are unloaded from freight cars or highway trucks directly onto conveyors leading to a second-floor filling department. On the average, 35 per cent of the jars move via overhead conveyor, and 35 per cent by a tunnel conveyor running under the rail siding dock. The remainder of the cartons are palletized in the freight cars and moved by electric truck, either to storage or, via elevators, to the second floor.

On the second floor, empty jars are fed into the filling room by conveyor, or from standing pallet loads. Kraft uses electric trucks to facilitate movement of pallets.

Filled jars are repacked into cartons and moved by conveyor to the first floor storage and shipping areas. Cartons arrive at the plant both printed and blank. Blank cartons receive imprinting automatically as they pass to the first floor after leaving the case sealer.

From the conveyors on the first floor, cartons are stacked on waiting pallets for transfer by lift trucks to temporary storage or to shipping docks. An enclosed shipping dock, which can accommodate 10 highway carriers, is conveniently served by both automatic lifts and driver-led platform trucks. Several of these driver-led trucks are employed directly in highway trucks to speed handling and loading operations.

The number of cartons per pallet varies from 40 to approximately 125. Load weights also vary, ranging up to 2,000 lb.

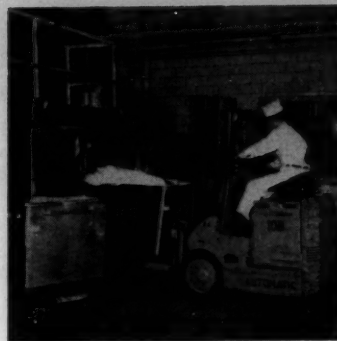

High Output

Kraft finds that conveyors and electric trucks combine to give high operating output when needed. A continuous movement of glass jars from freight cars to filling to shipping, often is accomplished all in one day. The Peshtigo plant processes about one million lb of products daily, shipping most, as made, to its branches where the majority of storage is done.

Use and Maintenance

Kraft endeavors to obtain the greatest possible functional usage from its materials handling equipment. For example, fork trucks, used primarily for pallet movement, also are called upon to transport loads of filter paper Kraft employs in processing vegetable oils.

Kraft reports that maintenance of its electric trucks is a small problem. A maintenance section, which carries complete selections of spare parts for the industrial truck fleet, as well as a central battery-charging station, capable of handling 17 riding-type electric trucks and 18 smaller driver-led trucks simultaneously, is located within the plant. •

KRAFT Foods Co. uses fork trucks to solve a materials handling problem in the cheese "kitchen" of its Chicago plant. In a setting of white-uniformed workers, stainless steel hoppers, blenders and pasteurizers, and spotless tile floors, are found two electric fork-lift trucks like those used in factories and warehouses.

The situation is a good example of how easily industrial trucks can be made to fit into a highly sanitary operation requiring split-second timing of all factors involved.

During production of its processed cheese, Kraft uses the trucks to transport wheelbarrow-like "bucket trucks," filled with blended cheese mixture, from stainless steep hoppers on one side of the room to stainless steel continuous laydown pasteurizers in the center. The buckets are raised and on signal, dump the mixture into the pasteurizers. Weight of loaded bucket truck is 1,000 lb.

Two of these specially-equipped trucks service seven pasteurizers and eight hoppers, occupying most of the area in a 175- by 100-ft room.

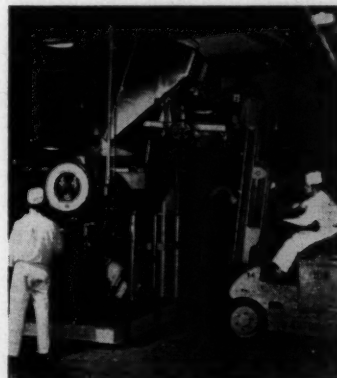

The entire operation takes place on a split-second schedule, integrating the trucks, hoppers and pasteurizers.

According to Kraft's materials handling director, the dumping operation was "actually built around the special fork trucks." Construction and layout of the building, which Kraft acquired in 1948, does not permit use of continuous gravity-fed operations used by Kraft in other plants.

The dumping system has proved to be highly efficient, contributing to man-hour savings. Kraft also uses a fleet of 30 driver-led and riding type electric trucks in its other handling operations. •

Will Your Business Get Its Share Of Tax Relief?

The new tax code is estimated to have cut $1.36 billion from business and personal taxes this year—are you getting your legitimate share?

MANY provisions of the new tax law already are in effect. The operating decisions you are making day by day may determine whether or not you can get the most benefit from the new provisions.

Though, in general, the new tax law is much more liberal toward business than the old one, some loopholes have been plugged but other provisions bear down a little harder.

Seven main areas can be spotlighted. But remember, every business has its own conditions to consider. No general statement should be applied without full study and consultation with an expert.

Faster Depreciation

Depreciation write-off is greatly speeded. A much greater portion of the cost of new (not used) equipment can be written off in the early part of the useful life of the asset. Under one new method, for example, double the amount previously allowed can be written off in the first year.

The deductions are no greater over the entire useful life, but they are much greater in those years when the expenditure is most felt and before returns may begin to taper off because of obsolescence.

Methods Switch

Ask your tax expert whether a switch from one method (i.e., declining balance, some of the years-digits) to another might be advantageous. Be sure to note that some switches are automatically permissive and some are not, and that the kind of records you keep (or fail to keep) may defeat the benefit the law holds out to you.

If you have been leasing equipment, instead of buying outright, you may want to reappraise your practice in the light of the new laws. And, perhaps, you will want to look into earlier disposal of used equipment.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is based on material supplied by the American Institute of Accountants, national professional society of certified public accountants.

Research and development costs now may be deducted in the year they are incurred. You no longer have to wait to get a patent or give up your experiment as a failure before deducting your costs.

More Realistic Accounting

Tax accounting under the new law has been brought more nearly into line with generally accepted accounting principles. Income reporting can be more realistic. You can deduct from current receipts estimates of such future expenses as refunds and rebates, allowances for discounts, claims for damages, etc. You can report advance rentals in the years in which they will be earned and in which you will have expenses such as maintenance or repairs to deduct.

Altogether, there will be less difference between taxable income and net income as it is figured by accountants for ordinary business purposes.

Lower Corporate Taxes

Partnerships and proprietorships now may, under certain circumstances, elect to report and be taxed as corporations. Some businesses will want to take advantage of the lower corporate rates at certain levels; remembering, however, that once elected the practice must be continued unless there is a 20 percent or more change in ownership. And remembering, too, that though owners may escape an immediate high personal tax bracket by electing to report as corporations, assets kept in the business may later be subject to estate tax or income tax (as dividends or capital gains).

Earnings for Expansion

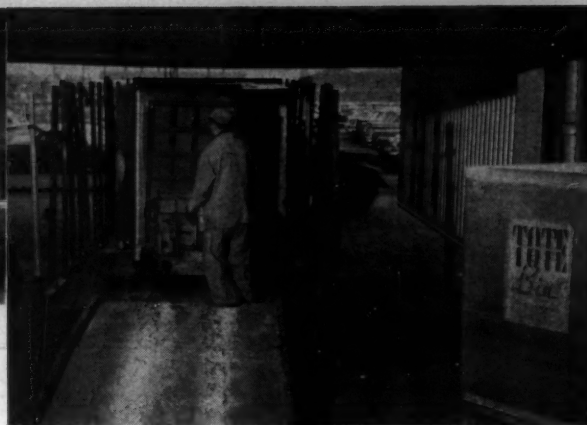

Retention of earnings for future expansion or modernization is made easier by the granting of a $60,000 accumulation-credit (total for all years). Also, if any part of a greater accumulation is deemed not for "reasonable needs" of the business, the penalty tax is applied only to that particular part, not to the entire accumulation for the year, as formerly.

Most important of all, burden of proof is now laid upon the Internal Revenue Service, not on you.

Aluminum Tote Bins Simplify Bulk Handling

New York trucker reports a saving of 20¢ per cwt in the transportation of bulk sugar from refinery to producers

A SAVING of 20¢ per cwt in the handling of bulk sugar is reported through the use of a new alloy aluminum tote bin. The bin can be hermetically sealed, is waterproof, vermin-proof, and contamination-proof in all respects.

This saving, which amounts to $7.20 per 3,600-lb bin load, results from the fact that the bins are loaded and discharged automatically. All movement of the bins, from point-of-supply to point-of-use, is accomplished by means of fork or pallet truck.

Advantages of the system are cited by Pride Transportation Co., of Brooklyn, N. Y., which moves up to 1.5 million lb of material daily within a 75-mile radius of New York. Pride, supplying four major food producers in the area, moves as much as 700,000 lb of sugar a day.

Pride pioneered the idea in the New York area when management became aware of the manpower waste in handling sugar in 100-lb, 5-ply bags. After the bags were filled, they had to be carried by hand for pallet stacking and movement by fork or pallet truck. The hand process was repeated at the receiving end of the line. In addition, the cost of the disposable paper bags was considerable.

Continuous Operation

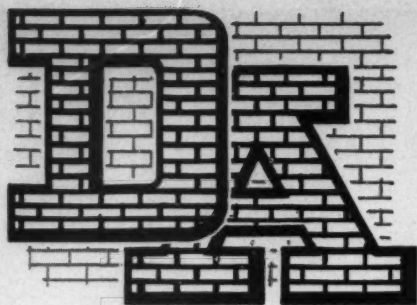

Refineries in the area supply bulk sugar, usually in 74-cu ft bins. The sugar is moved by trailer-truck directly from the refining plant to the producer. The bins are filled with sugar directly on the open trailer. The loading and unloading is a continuous operation, from refinery to producer, and back to the refinery.

In the case of Pride Transportation, the customers own and service the bins. However, other truckers in the area have added bins as standard fleet equipment and use them to haul such commodities as phosphate, flour, cement, and other bulk items.

Pride was able to convert its existing highway equipment to bulk handling without the purchase of special bulk hopper units. A standard 34-ft trailer can haul 16 of the 74-cu ft size bins and, when the occasion demands, the trailer can haul split loads.

Because loading and unloading time is cut from hours to minutes, Pride claims that a rig and driver can move twice the tonnage in a given time. In addition, a flat-bed trailer loaded with bins weighs up to 10,000 lb less than most bulk hopper trucks, which permits greater payloads within existing highway regulations. •

Hinged Conveyor Belt

May-Fran Engineering, Inc., announces development of a new hinged-steel conveyor belt featuring a dimpled surface. This new belt has been designed to eliminate discharge problems experienced with flat-surfaced belts handling small, flat, light-gage metal parts or scrap. The dimpled design assures drop-off of flat pieces and scrap, even though covered with oil or compound or slightly magnetized, when the belt passes over discharge end of the conveyor.

Side Shifter and Clamp

Lamson Mobilift Corp. announces the marketing of a new combination side shifter and clamp. The unit has been designed to handle rolls of paper, or other materials in roll form, ranging from 32 to 52 in. in diameter and weighing up to 3,000 lb. The rolls can be picked up in roll position and turned 90 deg, making it possible to stack them on end. The side shifter, with 4-in. movement each side of center, eliminates unnecessary positioning of the truck for exact spotting of rolls.

Precision Shelving

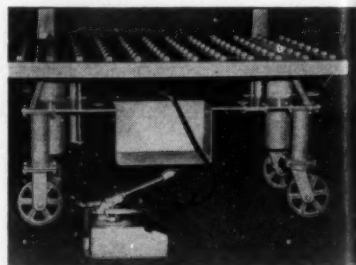

A line of steel shelving, whose more than 1,000 different combinations permit the custom assembling of an installation for virtually all kinds of storage needs, has been brought out by Standard Pressed Steel Co. Each component is formed in no more than three operations and thus repositioning, with its attendant inaccuracies, is reduced to a minimum. All holes in any one piece are pierced simultaneously. Units for the storage of tools or parts, or almost any temporary or long-time storage item can be bolted side by side for any desired length. And they can also be bolted back to back. All bolts and nuts are cadmium plated as protection against corrosion. The shelving comes in green enamel which is baked on over a phosphate coating.

Sheet Feeding Table

The Raymond Corp. has developed a new standard sheet feeding table. Ball transfers set into the table top on 6-in. centers allow one man to easily position plates measuring 48x72 in. and weighing up to 2000 lb. The table top is adjustable from 36 in. in the lowered position to 48 in. in the elevated position so that the unit can be used with production machines having different heights. Hydraulic rams operated by a foot pump make height adjustments easy and convenient. Large 10-in. diameter casters roll freely even when the table is fully loaded.

Smaller Tractor Shovel With Double Capacity

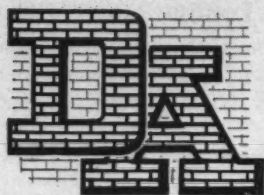

Circle 159 on Service Card, Page 55

More than three years of development and field testing have gone into a new HA model Payloader tractor-shovel according to an announcement made by The Frank G. Hough Co. The smallest unit in the Payloader line, this new model has twice as much lifting, digging and carrying capacity as its predecessor. The bucket has been increased 16⅓ per cent, giving this new HA a payload capacity of 18 cu ft and a struck-load capacity of 14 cu ft. Productive capacity has been increased from 50 to 100 per cent and the maximum dumping height has been increased 18 per cent. In spite of all these increases, this new Payloader is a more maneuverable machine with a shorter turning radius than the former model. It can be operated into and out of box cars with ease. An entirely different bucket arm design permits exceptional break-out action of the bucket and 40 deg of tipback. This new design makes it possible to carry heaped loads at a lower level, thus providing greater stability and better operator vision.

Electric Stand-Up Truck

A new electric stand-up hydraulic lift truck has been announced by The Yale & Towne Mfg. Co. This truck was designed originally for those motor truck companies which prefer a stand-up truck because their operation requires frequent mounting and dismounting. The unit, however, can handle any warehouse or factory job that can be performed by any other truck of its rated capacity. Called the K-46 model, the truck is available in 2,000-, 3,000- and 4,000-lb capacities.

Maximum Capacity Refrigerated Trailer

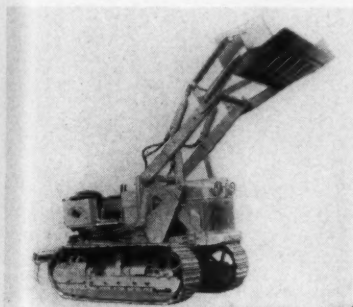

Circle 166 on Service Card, Page 55

The New Volume Van recently announced by Fruehauf Trailer Co. and designed to give maximum capacity for any given length and weight now is available as a refrigerated unit. Following the pattern of its dry-freight predecessor, the new unit is designed to give larger reefer loads and more insulated space per unit of length and height. Any desired insulation can be provided for this unit down as low as -10 deg F. Insulation comes in three thicknesses, the lightest being 3 in. for 35 deg F or above; 4½ in. thickness for 10 deg F or above, and 6 in. for the maximum insulation. There also is available a semi-insulated Volume Van reefer with 1½ in. of insulation at a lower cost than any of the three fully insulated types. Featuring the new Volume Van reefer is a sturdy light-weight, moisture proof floor of overlapping construction with extruded aluminum sections giving a positive moisture seal. Ample insulation beneath the floor protects the cargo from road temperatures. Drainage is provided at both the front and rear ends.

Crawler Tractor Line

Twelve new models of crawler tractors, attachments, and trailers, together with a new lease-purchase plan, have been announced

Cross-Construction Freight Van

Circle 171 on Service Card, Page 55

A newly designed low-cost freight van is in production at Dorsey Trailers. The new unit features X-braced construction. The new trailer has a flat galvanized steel roof for higher cubic content, and the smooth side sheets are cold rolled stretcher leveled steel. A two-speed steel landing gear is standard on the new van. X-bracing is tubular steel and the plywood lining is installed horizontally. The Fleetliner, available with single axle as well as tandem suspension, has a square front with 10-in. radius corners and a new rear skirt with lights protected by a full length bumper. Optional inside heights in increments of 4 in. are offered and length options will be in one-foot increments from 26 to 36 ft.

Double-Action Clamp

Fork lift truck high-stacking of heavy loads with a carton clamp is simplified with a new double-action hydraulic carton clamp developed by Towmotor Corp. This clamp permits faster approaches when removing heavy loads from a stack with a fork truck, because each arm is controlled by a separate hydraulic control lever. Clamp arm pressure applied to both sides of the carton can be equalized by the fork lift truck driver to prevent tipping over high stacks of cartons, which sometimes occurs with conventional clamps if the load is too far off center.

Selective Storage

A Trak-Rak crane system of storing materials, developed by Chicago Tramrail Corp., is claimed to utilize 90 per cent of available space, provide 100 per cent selectivity in handling stored objects, and is adaptable to almost any type item. Featuring one-man, push-button control, the system consists of self-standing rack-columns arranged on either side of narrow aisles. A crane bridge spans the entire area, and travels lengthwise on tracks to any depth. Suspended from an overhead trolley on the crane bridge is an electric fork-lift which revolves to serve either aisle.

Drum Handling Attachment

Drum handling is simplified by the new Miller Fork Lift Drum Handling Attachment, according to its manufacturer, General Machine and Welding Works. The unit is controlled from the driver's position by use of a hand lever which raises or lowers the equipment to the release or close-grab position. The action is mechanical, with a vacuum booster for raising and lowering the clamping fingers. It will fit any fork-lift regardless of make. The drive-in technique is used almost one hundred per cent in hooking up to the lift. No lashing or bolting is required other than the normal fixed position hook-up for standard attachment.

WAREHOUSING

Recently a warehouseman wrote an interesting letter, in part, as follows: "At the last meeting of our association of warehousemen a legal question arose, with the members divided as to the answer.

Can a customer sue a warehouseman for damages above the value noted on the warehouse receipt?

"If a customer or owner of goods accepts a warehouse receipt or other paper acknowledging that he will hold the warehouseman liable for a limited amount, in case the goods are lost, destroyed or damaged, is the owner of the goods bound and obligated not to sue the warehouseman for full value of the goods?

"Also, suppose the goods are destroyed or lost through negligence of the warehouseman, is such a clause in the warehouse receipt applicable and in favor of the warehouseman whose employees negligently caused the loss or damage to the goods?

"Some of our members argue that if the owner of goods signs a receipt or contract in which he agrees to exonerate the warehouseman for negligence of his employees, the owner of the goods can be held to his bargain, because if he does not want to exonerate the warehouseman for loss or destruction or damage to his goods, he should not sign such a contract. What do the courts hold?"

The answer to the last question is: Although the owner of goods signs a contract, or warehouse receipt, which absolutely and clearly relieves the warehouseman from all liability for loss, damage or destruction of the goods, and the owner of the goods intends to so relieve the warehouseman, the courts will not allow the warehouseman to avoid liability. See the leading case of E— v. L—, F— Storage Co., 94 Cal. App. 562, 271 P. 532. Here a court held that under no circumstances may either a carrier or warehouseman limit its responsibility on goods lost or damaged through negligence of its employees.

For comparison, see B—, v. S— Moving & Storage Co., 176 S. W. (2d) 58. In this case the higher court held that a limitation clause in a warehouse receipt is valid if the testimony shows that the receipt was accepted by the owner of the goods who had opportunity to pay a higher rate for a full coverage provided the testimony proves positively that the loss did not result from negligence of the warehouseman and his employees. The court said:

"While a warehouseman may not avoid his liability for negligence, he may nevertheless stipulate with the owner as to what the extent of the latter's recovery shall be, where the rate charged the owner is based upon an agreed valuation."

Another well established rule of law in all states is that neither a carrier nor a warehouseman can limit liability for ordinary loss of or damage to transported or stored goods, unless the testimony proves positively that the owner of the goods intended to limit the carrier's or warehouseman's liability.

For illustration, in F— v. R— Moving & Storage Co., 195 Pac. (2d) 968, the testimony showed that a man named F— employed a warehouseman, who also was a common carrier, to move and store his household goods. Some of the goods were missing and lost by the warehouseman during transportation. F— sued for the full value of the missing goods.

During the trial the warehouseman proved that at the time the goods were accepted for transportation and storage F— signed a printed receipt or van ticket, which had thereon a clause printed in small type in which F— agreed that the valuation of the goods was not over 10¢ per lb, and limited the warehouseman's liability to that amount. An additional clause provided: "It is understood that irrespective of the released valuation shown in the preceding sentence, your (warehouseman) liability for stored goods . . . is limited to 10¢ per lb per article."

F— testified that he did not read this receipt and that the driver of the truck did not direct his attention to the limitation and further that he assumed he was merely signing an ordinary receipt for the goods which the truck driver loaded into the truck.

In view of this testimony the higher court held that the warehouseman must pay F— the full value of the missing goods, and said:

"In the case before us the warehouseman had knowledge that the contents of the barrels were of far greater value than the nominal valuation recited. There was no fair agreement between the parties as to the limited and nominal valuation declared. This arbitrary limitation, therefore, was not binding on the bailor (F—)."

The real and basic reason for this law is that long ago the courts adopted a universal rule that no person can by contract or otherwise avoid his ordinary responsibility and liability for injuries to person or property. This is so whether the con-

Owner-signed receipt does not exonerate the warehouseman in liability cases. Limitation clause limits carrier for loss or damage to goods. Company must exercise storage care tract relates to injuries to employees, customers, invitees or other persons, or loss or damage to shipped, bailed, or stored merchandise.

Another reason why warehousemen cannot avoid liability for their negligence in storage of merchandise is that the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act provides that a warehouseman cannot insert in a receipt issued by him any other terms and conditions which in "any wise impair his obligation to exercise that degree of care in the safe-keeping of the goods intrusted to him which a reasonably careful man would exercise in regard to similar goods of his own."

What proof must a warehouseman present to convince the court that he exercised sufficient care?

Sometime ago, when the writer attended a warehousemen's convention, several warehousemen asked substantially this same question: "If stored goods are destroyed or damaged in the warehouse, what testimony and proof must the warehouseman present to convince the court that he exercised sufficient care to avoid liability for the loss?"

Last month a higher court clearly answered this question.

For illustration, in C— v. Y—, 269 Pac. (2d) 1096, the testimony showed facts, as follows: One C— stored his household goods in a warehouse. A day or two later, having found a home, C— requested return of the goods stored. Before the warehouse company was able to deliver the furniture and effects to C— a fire occurred in the warehouse and C—'s belongings were destroyed. The fire was admittedly of unknown origin. C— sued the warehouseman for the reasonable value of the goods in the amount of $3,500.

During the trial the court explained that the warehouse company is liable for loss of the goods, if the loss was caused by its failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise, but the warehouse company shall not be liable for any loss or injury to the goods which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care.

The warehouseman introduced testimony for the purpose of proving that the fire did not result from negligence of his employees, as follows: There was no debris or accumulation of waste of any kind around the premises; the warehouse building was of corrugated iron and metal frame; the inspection of the fire chief showed the C—'s goods were properly stored insofar as that official could determine, and that fire extinguishers were available; an inspection of the premises was made by the warehouseman at 10 p.m. on the night of the fire, approximately three hours before the fire occurred; that the only rags, mops or similar substances dangerous for storage were contained in packages stored by other owners of goods and into which packages a warehouseman has no right to go; that smoking was not permitted on

Pier C (left), 700 ft long and 328 ft wide, under construction since September, 1953, will be completed in March, 1955. Pier A (right), to be 700 ft long and 323 ft wide, will replace existing piers 1 and 2. Pier 3 (center) to be known as Pier B, a double-deck, 91-ft-wide and 949-ft-long pier, will be modernized to include first-class passenger accommodations on its upper deck, and up-to-date cargo facilities on the lower deck the premises; and that there was no known deviation from standard warehouse procedures.

In view of this testimony the higher court held that the warehouseman had exercised ordinary care to safeguard the stored goods and, therefore, C— was not entitled to recover any payment.

For comparison, see D— Warehouse Co. v. W—, 172 F. (2d) 910, 913, 13 A.L.R. (2d) 669. This higher court decided that a warehouseman has the burden of proof as to due care in the case of a fire of unknown origin.

TRANSPORTATION

Is carrier liable for full damages if clause is signed before shipment?

The higher courts hold that neither an interstate nor intrastate carrier can be limited from liability for loss or damage to shipped merchandise, unless the shipper signed the bill of lading or a receipt containing a limitation clause, before the shipment was made. This rule of law is applicable to carriers who either accept merchandise for transportation at its terminal, or at the shipper's home or place of business.

For example, in S— v. P—, 51 S. E. (2d) 159, it was shown that a transfer and storage company moved certain goods. The goods were damaged in transit. The shipper sued the transfer company for full value of the equipment.

During the trial the testimony showed that the shipper had signed a bill of lading approved and filed with the ICC which contained a clause limiting the carrier's liability to 30¢ per lb. However, this signature was not obtained until after the goods were damaged in transportation.

Testimony showed that neither the weight ticket nor the bill of lading was signed by the shipper of the goods at the time the goods were accepted for transportation.

The carrier attempted to excuse its failure to secure the shipper's signature before the goods were shipped on the argument that the shipper did not come to the carrier's office after the goods were loaded and weighed, as he was expected to do.

Notwithstanding this argument the higher court held the carrier liable for full value of the damaged equipment, and said:

"The statute makes it abundantly clear that the carrier's common law liability for full actual damages is imposed when it accepts goods for carriage, unless a certain specified agreement limiting that liability has been made."

Refrigerated Space to Reach 480 Million Cu Ft This Year

A period of great expansion is being experienced by the public refrigerated warehouse industry, paralleling a rising consumer popularity for frozen foods and other perishable food products.

Officials of the NARW in Chicago last month for the Refrigerated Warehouse Industry National Training Conference at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, pointed out that the industry expects to have over 480 million cu ft of refrigerated space in operation by the end of 1955.

This compares to 389,991,000 cu ft of space the industry operated in 1943, about the time the frozen food boom started to pick up momentum.

Over half of the 480 million cu ft will be of the freezer type space, and will be used for storing the steadily increasing volume of frozen concentrates, fruits and vegetables, poultry, pot pies, fish sticks and other types of frozen foods.

The Training Conference was sponsored by NARW and the Refrigeration Research Foundation. Over 100 refrigerated warehousemen from all sections of the nation attended. Recent technical and research developments in all phases of warehouse operations were discussed.

New members of the Movers & Warehousemen's Association of America include: City View Transfer Co., Greensville, S. C.; Drieman Storage & Transfer, Virginia, Minn.; William T. Geipe, Baltimore, Md.; Robert E. Lee, Inc., Nashville, Tenn., and Trans-Security Service Corp., Los Angeles, Calif.

The Calumet Industrial District

Features of the $25,000,000 group warehouse building project in the Chicago area will include a modernized merchandise pooling and distribution system, plus new methods and equipment in freight storage and handling

The Calumet Industrial District Co., Chicago, Ill., announces that construction is well under way on a group of 12 modern, one-story warehouse buildings, designed to serve the nationwide food industry by new methods and equipment for the storage and handling of freight.

The District will utilize all forms of transportation—rail, truck, and water. Connecting rail lines will form a national network of rail distribution, and will have make-up yards close by the premises. The District is adjacent to three major highways, and will build its own four-lane roads bordering the buildings. Deep water transfer facilities will be available at the District-owned 1,000-ft marine dock on the nearby Calumet River.

Buildings will be of steel and concrete construction, truck-dock high, with 18-ft stacking height for palletized merchandise. Enclosed rail sidings will run along one side of each building, and truck doors on the opposite side, thus providing full, all-weather service.

The purpose of this vast food center is to house the inventories of principal food manufacturers throughout the country. From the approximately 3,000 large-demand items that will compose these combined inventories, the food wholesalers and chains can draw as often as desired, in quantities as needed. Orders will be pooled by the District, thereby permitting the same amount of mixed merchandise to move in one solid carload or truckload, at a reduced carload rate. Such pooling and distribution methods make a substantial contribution to the reduction of food distribution costs, which will ultimately result in savings to the consumer.

All facilities, services and personnel will be supplied by the District, unless a manufacturer prefers to operate from his own leased space with his own employees, in which case he can lease whatever space he requires from the District. Under either plan, the manufacturer may participate in pooling shipments with other manufacturers maintaining inventories in the District.

The most modern mechanical handling methods will be used for interchange of merchandise within and between buildings as well as for storage and handling.

It is claimed the 12 buildings, totalling more than 3,000,000 sq ft of floor space, will house the largest food distribution center in the world.

Standardization & Simplification

To make rate information more readily available and understandable, the action should include:

1. Revision and re-issue of freight tariffs along the lines of the constructive work being done by the Tariff Simplification Committee of the Association of American Railroads.
 2. Publication of an authoritative tariff of uniform shortline mileages via railroad, and of standard motor truck and steamship distance tables to afford greater certainty in the use of mileage scales—and to avoid time and expense consumed in rate cases involving distance controversies.
 3. Publication of a standardized rate location map of the United States.

Realistic Rate-Making . . .

7. Advanced state of manufacture;
8. Commercial value per unit of shipment;
9. Spread in value between point of origin and markets when such spreads are not attributable to freight rates;
10. Direction of movement;
11. Seasonality of movement;
12. Regularity of movement;
13. Need for special vehicular equipment;
14. Requirement of special terminal handling facilities.

The same commodity for different movements conceivably might be subject to several plus factors or arbitraries because of certain characteristics; or subject to several minus factors for favorable characteristics.

The suggested procedure follows substantially what is done now by rate-makers, except that it gives greater precision to the process by affording a foundation of average total costs upon which to base their judgment. Also, something of the same nature now is done by the Classification Committees in assigning articles to class ratings based upon a percentage of first class.

It is suggested, however, that the basic rate should be about the present column 30 rate—or whatever rate represents a fully compensatory rate covering its share of average total costs—so that the arbitrary and differentials can be added to or deducted from a rate which covers such average total costs.

Vehicle-Mile Costs

In calculating average total costs and out-of-pocket costs for use as guides to rate-making, it is suggested that vehicle-mile rather than ton-mile costs be used. The expenses of carriers of all types are usually incurred in vehicle-mile units rather than ton-mile. Moreover, the ton-mile cost is too small a unit to use realistically in cost or revenue determination.

The use of vehicle-mile cost and revenue data also is serviceable because it tends to emphasize the advantages to be gained by the loading of the vehicles to their weight or space carrying capacities.

Multiple-load or Lot Rates

In the case of railroads, where train-mile costs and revenues are important, consideration also should be given to the establishment of rates lower than carload rates for multiple-car, cargo-lot, or train-load lot rates.

Such large-lot rates should be available to all users upon equal terms. The large-lot movements tendered in train-load or multiple carload lots may be moved either in solid trainloads or used to fill out trains at the carriers' operating convenience, whichever would result in the greater operating economies.

Mileage or Distance Rates

Mileage or distance freight rates, constructed according to patterns which include a constant factor for terminal services and graduated upward by mileage blocks which increase in length as distance increases, are desirable as maximum rates. Additional cost evidence is needed, however, to indicate the extent to which the rates should be tapered as distance increases.

Traditionally, freight rates have been made upon the assumption that costs increase as distance increases but not in direct proportion to distance. The extent to which unit costs decrease as distance increases, however, is not as clear as necessary for precision rate-making.

The necessary data with respect to costs of transportation for hauls of different distances and via alternative routes, on different commodities are of fundamental importance to ascertain the extent to which each type of carrier is transporting freight in which it has the comparative inherent economic advantage, and has the ability to convert gross charges into net revenue.

With knowledge of the costs of performing different types of transportation services at different units and for different distances, the carriers and users of the services, subject to supervision of government regulatory bodies, would be in a better position to exercise their respective duties of managerial responsibility. Also, they would be better able to bargain realistically and effectively for the establishment of reasonable rates free of unjust and unreasonable discrimination, preference and prejudice.

● "You have to be good, to be BIG." That's true in all lines, including van lines!

North American is the leading long-distance moving organization—in number of agents and rate of growth. It holds this position because NAVL service is not merely good, but outstanding. Here are some check-points of North American leadership:

Almost 1,100 agents as against less than 650 for the next van line.

Coast-to-coast leased wire dispatching system to assure prompt arrival of any desired number of vans.

Personnel trained not only in scientific packing and loading, but in public relations—people like them.

Newest, best equipped vans on the road: over $1,000 worth of protective coverings and handling equipment per van.

Only departmentalized service for trade-show exhibit and display moving, directed by a charter member of Exhibitors Advisory Council.

Specify NAVL for your next move. You'll see why more and more traffic managers are saying: "Better move all ways, the North American way!"

Realistic Rate-Making . . .

basically concerned with relative rates from competitive producing, manufacturing and distributing centers and to competitive markets. Within the limits of reasonable differences in cost due to differences in distances or other considerations, reasonable rate relationships of this sort can best be obtained through the use of group-to-group rates.

Relatively large groupings of points of origin and destination could be used for long-haul rates, where slight differences in distance represent small percentages of total costs. Small groups of origin and destination points could be used for short-haul traffic to differentiate in rates where differences in distances are comparatively small.

The location of industries within origin and destination groups should be determined by negotiations between carriers and shippers, subject to the monitoring supervision and regulation of the ICC or state regulatory commissions.

The difficulties to be encountered in the location of points within groups of origin and destination are not to be minimized, but the hardships created by differences in rates resulting from relatively slight differences in distance, which may exclude producers, manufacturers or distributors from markets, and preclude markets from drawing supplies from competitive points, should not be ignored.

To make rate information more readily available and understandable, freight tariffs should be revised and reissued along the lines of the constructive work being done by the Tariff Simplification Committee of the AAR.

Accompanying these developments, there is need for the publication of an authoritative tariff of uniform shortline mileages via railroad and of standard motor truck and steamship distance tables to afford greater certainty in the use of mileage scales, and to avoid the time and expense consumed in rate cases in controversies respecting distances.

A standardized rate location map of the United States and official publications containing railroad, steamship, motor-highway, airway and pipeline distance tables would be boons to harassed freight rate-makers of the carriers and rate interpreters and users in industrial, commercial and government traffic departments.

Much redundant clerical work in carrier's offices and industrial traffic departments can be saved through tariff simplifications and standardization (see box on Page 66), use of official distances via different types of carriers, publication of single sum freight rates, and by stating, where feasible, rates per carload, per truckload, per barge load, or other vehicle load unit regardless of the weight of the goods loaded into the vehicles.

Charges could be rounded off in even figures of five or ten cents to simplify rate computations, if sample tests by carriers and users indicate that differences over or under these amounts would tend to offset each other.

Even greater economies in clerical expense to carriers and users are possible through the use of agreed average rates to be paid on all shipments regardless of type of commodity or distance transported. Such rates can be arrived at by negotiation between shippers and carriers of all types and applied over a period of time.

The average or agreed rates can be determined with a high degree of accuracy and equitability to carriers and users by an analysis of the traffic for a period prior to the establishment of the rates.

The traffic can be subject to inspection and analysis from time to time to guard against inequities produced by a material change in the traffic pattern, and appropriate changes in the average or agreed rates can be made to insure the fairness of the charges.

None of the changes in rate policies or practices can or should be adopted without critical examination and the collection of cost and service value data by carriers and by shippers. None of the suggested changes should be rejected because they are unconventional or appear to present difficult problems.

The present conditions in transportation are not conducive to complicity in rate-making policies or practices or to superficial rate adjustments.*

Giant Memory Machine Moves to Dallas

When Sun Oil Co.'s newest oil memory machine had to be trucked cross-country from Newton Square, Pa., to Dallas, Tex., elaborate precautions were necessary to prevent fatal shock to the super-sensitive instrument. The 1,250-lb computer measures 10 ft long, 5 ft, 8 in. tall, and 3 ft deep. Its 300 electronic tubes are set in motion by more than 1,100 buttons, dials, and switches. Ryan & Christie, Bryn Mawr, Pa., agents of Allied Van Lines, devised some new moving techniques. After the three sections of the disassembled computer had been hoisted from their moorings and dolleyed into the moving van, they were bedded down in 5-lb bags of silica gel and yards of special padding. With the load secured, the van then was sealed at all door openings with 120 yards of 3-in. masking tape. The seal was never broken during the week-long journey on the road.

Coordination . . .

tion can be very spotty, especially in the particular field we are discussing. The question is then—what to do?

Management should realize the importance of controlling these expensive service functions which have been many times considered necessary evils of doing business. The best method of coordination is to appoint someone to do the job.

It is recommended that the function of physical distribution be centralized under one head. A director of physical distribution should be established in the upper echelons of the organization with complete responsibility and authority to plan, schedule, and control all physical distribution activities, both external and internal. He should establish physical distribution policies and insure their successful application. He should educate carriers concerning your distribution problems and enlist their compliance with plant requirements. He should enlist industrial engineering advice and assistance in the analysis of layouts, methods, and procedures.

Benefits of Coordination

There are definite benefits to management to be realized from the establishment of this position at a higher level. When these functions are coordinated organizationally, the man in charge is at a high level where he can command for the functions the top-management attention they deserve.

He is in a position to speak up when sales programs are formulated without regard for the impact on transportation and warehousing, or when purchasing policies cause unnecessary handling and storage. With a voice in top-management councils, he can make sure his company does not save money in one direction, only to lose it on distribution. He is at the top where he can scan the whole panorama of distribution.

Second, a company can afford to put into this position a high-priced man and gain the benefits of quality management.

A member of the organization of the plastics division of a large chemical company recently stated that saving in raw material inventories amounted to $600,000 after new methods had been developed in a combined transportation and materials department.

Not many companies are large enough to save this much, but all can save proportionately by taking the same approach—to think in terms of physical distribution; not handling, layout, warehousing, traffic, packaging, and control of materials separately, but as functions to be integrated into a single system—then to coordinate them organizationally and operationally, making them the exclusive responsibility of a high-level executive.

It is not possible to specifically state the requirements of the job of director of physical distribution. If the emphasis is on the production and immediate shipment of goods to distribution points operated by agents rather than his company, the experience requirements will lean in the direction of rate, ICC regulations, traffic problems, etc. On the other hand, if the company controls the distribution and handling of the product from the raw material to consumer, a more varied background is necessary. The specific job requirements should determine the experience necessary.

Job Requirements

Broadly speaking, the job requirements should call for a sufficient knowledge of the overall field to supervise effectively the internal and external distribution and the warehousing functions of the company and at the same time direct the efforts of the materials handling engineering function subject to the specific conditions under which the company is operating.

Organization-wise, under the director of physical distribution the traffic manager and the materials handling engineer should be on the same level. As experts in their respective fields each should be limited to that field. This is in keeping with the modern trend toward specialization.

The traffic manager is concerned with the economic and expeditious movement of material into and out of the plant. In this function he should arrange adequate transportation facilities. By checking production and sales forecasts, he should be able to schedule the delivery of carrier's pickup equipment so that a minimum of dock space is required to accumulate shipments awaiting loading.

He should investigate the possibility of consolidating and pooling shipments with other companies to reduce time lost in rehandling at freight terminals. The traffic manager should also be responsible for the safe arrival of goods. By this I mean that he should be responsible for the inspection of damaged goods or material and act as the liaison between his company and the carrier.

He should be familiar with the various regulations both local and federal which concern his function. You will probably say that this is a normal job write-up of a traffic manager. It is.

We feel that this job is so specialized that, if he does it properly, he will have no time for functions not peculiar to his job.

We would therefore limit him to his field and his authority would end at the unloading and loading docks of the company. This would in no way restrict him from passing on comments and information concerning details of his operation which merit correction by or assistance from other members of the organization.

In fact, it is his definite responsibility to pass on to his superior all information which may be pertinent to the distribution policies of the company. Similarly, he should enlist the help of his colleagues when necessary.

Handling Function

Before discussing the method of communication, I would like to talk about the materials handling engineering function. I say function because in some companies there will not be sufficient work to justify the employment of a full time materials handling engineer. The director of physical distribution will in this case request the assignment of a man from the industrial engineering department. For the duration of the assignment the engineer should report directly to the director.

The materials handling engineer will be concerned with methods and procedures covering the storing, picking up, transporting, and setting down of material. He also will develop new methods of packaging and packing and make adjustments to provide the best and cheapest packing consistent with good traffic practices.

We have now developed two functions operating at equal levels and responsible to the same authority. One is primarily concerned with the everyday movement of goods and material into and out of the plant in the most expeditious and economic manner. The other is concerned with the objective study of all materials handling problems affecting the above and the development of a solution.

Communications between the two should be via the normal channels used by any two functions on the same level. It may be written or oral depending on the conditions covering the particular subject under discussion. Short-lived problems may be settled at once by discussion and agreement at the point of occurrence. Long-term problems will usually be written up and data developed for analysis and discussion.

Personal contact should be made at least once a week to discuss problems and improvement in packing or packaging methods in transportation. • ilities are made available for special requirements beyond regular scheduled service, they are not always prepared to provide service on short notice to off-line points.

To insure that the services of certificated charter carriers will not encroach into other fields of air transportation, the Board should set forth a definition of bona fide charter services and requirements, and impose certain conditions in all certificates. Among these might be:

a. Authorization in the international field should be limited to the carriage of property only.

b. Only plane-load transportation should be offered and sold.

c. Passengers would be accepted only from a group which has sufficient affinity to distinguish it and set it apart from the general public.

d. Passengers should be accepted only from bona fide groups whose principal aims, purposes and objectives are other than the transportation itself.

e. The carrier should not accept traffic from persons whose business, either directly or indirectly, is the formation of passenger groups from the general public, or the solicitation or sale of individual transportation services, unless specifically permitted to do so by the CAB.*

... Tax Relief

All is not sheer velvet, however, for the corporations. Those with an anticipated tax liability of $100,000 or more must make their tax payments earlier in the year. The process is to be stepped up gradually over a five-year period.

Greater Off-Sets

Under the old law, if you suffered a net loss one year, the impact might have been softened somewhat by a carry-back to the preceding tax year. This carry-back generally meant you received a refund of some or all of the taxes you had paid the year before. Any losses not absorbed in this way would be carried forward for as many as five years.

Technical Changes

These carry-forwards would reduce your taxes in later years, but they were no help in bringing in immediate cash. The new law provides for a carry-back for two years instead of one, in addition to the five-year carry forward.

These are only the high lights. Over 3,000 technical changes have been made in this colossal overhauling of the federal tax code. Once you understand it, chances are you'll be happier with the new law than you were with the old.*

WHERE-TO-BUY HANDLING, TRANSPORTATION & PACKAGING SUPPLIES

Tools, equipment, materials, services, and supplies are among the more important elements, involved in the business of physical distribution.

In any operation involving materials handling, transportation, warehousing, or packaging—or any of the ramifications of these prime phases of physical distribution—tools and equipment must be engineered to the materials being moved, the system itself, and the men operating the system.

It is a tribute to American industry that no matter how complex or unusual an operation, somewhere there is a tool which will make the job easier. Perhaps even more of a tribute is the fact that in this age of specialization, many of those tools and pieces of equipment are designed with enough versatility to perform a variety of jobs with equal efficiency.

With publication of this free Where-to-Buy Directory, again DA is attempting to help you fit the right tool to the right job. Readers should find the Directory especially helpful when used in conjunction with the original DA Master Chart of Handling Systems and Selection and Application Guide (DA, May, 1954, Pages 53-120).

Product and service classifications included in the Directory embraces those items most common to the field of physical distribution. For obvious reasons the listings presented here are not all-inclusive. Selection of the products and services listed was dictated by reader interest, including presentations in the monthly New Products and Free Literature sections.

Additional information on any of the products listed can be obtained by writing the editor, or by using one of the Reader Service Cards appearing on Page 55.

FACTS ABOUT Exide[®]

IRONCLAD[®] INDUSTRIAL TRUCK BATTERIES

GET MORE LIFTS
EACH SHIFT
...WITH LOW COST
EXIDE IRONCLAD POWER!

RAPID, ACCURATE HANDLING, PRECISE SPOTTING ARE MAJOR COST SAVING ADVANTAGES OF USING EXIDE-POWERED LIFT TRUCKS. THEY RESPOND INSTANTLY TO ANY POWER NEED. THE LARGE RESERVE POWER OF EXIDE-IRONCLADS KEEPS TRUCKS WORKING FULL SHIFTS... WITH NO COSTLY UNSCHEDULED DOWN TIME!

BATTERIES ARE WORKED TO DEATH
BY EXIDE ENGINEERS TO LEARN
SECRETS OF LONGER LIFE

SINCE 1910, RESEARCHERS HAVE GREATLY IMPROVED EXIDE-IRONCLAD PERFORMANCE AND USEFUL WORKING LIFE, BUT THE BASIC IRONCLAD PRINCIPLE OF TUBULAR CONSTRUCTION REMAINS THE SAME.

LAB TESTS OF IRONCLADS AGAINST CONVENTIONAL TYPES OF BATTERIES SHOW THAT THEY GIVE BETTER PERFORMANCE... AND FROM 20% TO 30% LONGER LIFE! THESE TWO FACTS, DEMONSTRATED BY THOUSANDS OF BATTERY USERS, ARE THE REASON WHY...

PROTECTED CONDUCTING GRID
COMPRESSED ACTIVE MATERIAL
SLOTTED RETAINER TUBE
IRONCLAD POSITIVE PLATE

EXIDE-IRONCLADS ARE YOUR BEST POWER BUY
AT ANY PRICE!

WISCONSIN-POWERED "In-Plant" Fire Truck Proves its "Put-Out Power"

Designed primarily for "in-plant" factory and warehouse fire protection, this versatile, highly maneuverable, fully equipped Kalamazoo Fire Truck, made by Kalamazoo Mfg. Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., demonstrates its efficiency in extinguishing an "out-plant" oil and high octane fire.

Extremely compact design enables this fire truck to negotiate standard doors, factory and warehouse aisles, moving at speeds up to 15 miles per hour. Recognizing the fact that vital emergency service requires the utmost dependability from the power unit, the builders stake their reputation on the quick-starting ability, fast get-away and operating efficiency of the Wisconsin Model TF 2-cylinder Heavy-Duty Air-Cooled Engine.

You can't do better than specify "Wisconsin Power" for your equipment, whatever its nature. Available in a complete power range from 3 to 36 hp. Write for descriptive Bulletin S-164.

SAVE TIME AND MONEY HANDLING UNITIZED LOADS

... specify delivery on
MEAD CHESTNUT POKE-PAK

If you have a fork truck, order your unitized loads shipped on Poke-Pak, MEAD's sturdy, rigid loading base made of chestnut and other hardwood fibers. You'll be able to unload your orders in a fraction of the time it takes now, and you'll be done with returnable pallets and their freight charges—Poke-Paks cost so little you can throw them away after use. With Poke-Pak there is less chance of damage during delivery—no nails or splinters to cause punctures and, because of low center of gravity, no loads that tip. The use of Poke-Pak also simplifies inventory taking. MEAD Chestnut Poke-Pak is adaptable to any loading process, including the new Pull-Pak equipment. For complete information, write for a folder.

NOTE TO SHIPPERS: With Poke-Pak just the ends of the car have to be lined; you have no credits or charge-backs on returnable pallets; you load in less time; and you reduce storage space—60 to 70 ft in the space needed for one wooden pallet. Carloading diagrams, bag patterns, and samples supplied free.

Notice ease with which worker handles this 48" x 60" Magcoa Dockboard.

One-man, "do-it-yourself" handling equipment!

Low dock, high truck . . . requiring a long, easy slope. Magcoa solves it easily with a combination consisting of a Ramp section and a Dockboard section. And each section can be moved by one man. If it had been built as a one-piece unit, it would have been difficult. This way, it's easy . . . and safe.

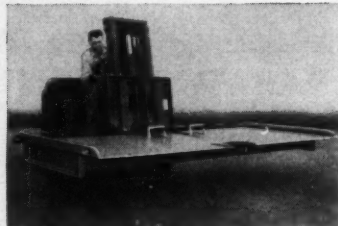

Even the big Magcoa Yard Ramp for trailer and rail loading from ground level can be moved and positioned by one man. Whatever your loading problem, you can count on Magcoa to help you solve it.

POWRWORKER "26"*

The most "SERVICEABLE" truck ever built!

Built for years of dependable service, the POWRWORKER is designed with the maintenance man in mind. No lubrication is necessary. Wheel bearings and drive motor bearings are sealed for life. Gear train, mounted on ball and roller bearings, operates in a totally enclosed bath of oil. Direct wiring between controls and motor eliminates the source of resistance. There are no commutators or long flexing wires, eliminating any chance of power loss and insuring maximum efficiency.

Every working part is completely and easily accessible. Either the hydraulic system or the power head can be uncovered separately, permitting service without further dis-assembly.

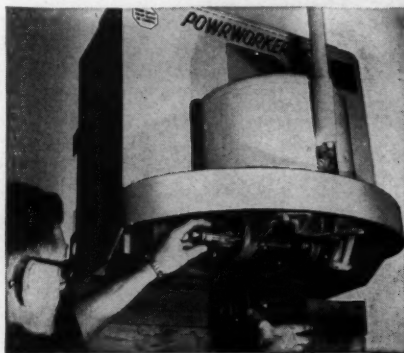

For all-round serviceability and operating efficiency, no truck on the market can match the POWRWORKER, the most compact and functional standard truck ever built. See your own local Clark dealer for further information or demonstration.

... compare these ACCESSIBILITY features

POWER HEAD READY-TO-WORK-ON IN 2 MINUTES . . .

Split cover allows complete accessibility to the drive motor, brakes, resistor and control panel by merely removing 7 screws. Revolving head permits servicing any side of the power head without further dis-assembly. For major overhaul, the whole unit can be removed in 17 minutes.

CHANGE DRIVE TIRE IN 12 MINUTES . . .

Standard Press-on type demountable tire is furnished as original equipment. Raise the truck 12 inches and loosen spanner nut which releases the axle shaft and the wheel drops out. Split wheel rim with spreader inserts allow immediate tire dis-assembly and re-assembly.

SERVICE BONUS—POWER UNIT REMOVED IN 17 MINUTES . . .

For complete service or overhaul—when necessary—the complete power head, control handle and drive mechanism can be lifted out with a hoist after removing three bolts. Another Example that the POWRWORKER is designed with the maintenance man in mind.

*The POWRWORKER "26" is only 26 inches longer than the load . . . the shortest standard truck on the market!

(complete with batteries and charger)

THE NEW Economy

Walkie-Worklifter

for light and medium duty service

Operators say they have never seen anything like it for value and performance.

The low price of the Walkie-Worklifter makes it practical to use a number of these machines at various points throughout your plant, right where they are needed. Avoid delays in waiting for a heavy duty lift truck to come for a light duty job.

The Walkie-Worklifter can be operated by anyone—does not require the services of a fork truck driver.

Walkie-Worklifters are available in many models to handle specific jobs.

Standard platform models with lift up to 110". Straddle type fork models with lift up to 108".

Get the full facts about this new and important development in the Walkie field. Mail the coupon for general bulletin or write, wire or phone for prices and specifications.

Telescoper straddle base adjustable fork model for double face pallets. Lift 108".

Selection Guide

Readers will find the material in this section more helpful when used in conjunction with the DA Master Chart and Handling Selection Guides (May, 1954).

WAREHOUSE DIRECTORY

In assembling and editing material which appears in this year's Directory, a new system was inaugurated. Listings were shortened and simplified. Some extraneous material was omitted. Other more vital points of information were included.

Months prior to publication of this issue, a survey was conducted among a cross-section of industrial traffic managers and other DA readers who use public warehouse space. These men told us what they liked and did not like in past issues, and what they would like to see in future issues.

As a result of these findings, a completely new form was designed. It incorporates those recommendations made most frequently in the survey. As a service to warehousemen and warehouse users, all information pertinent to each warehouse operation was edited and published free of charge.

Listings and advertisements of principal general merchandise and household goods warehouses appear on the pages immediately following. This General Section is followed by a Refrigerated Section. Firm names of regular monthly DA advertisers appear in capital letters.

Listings are arranged alphabetically within geographic locations. For complete services of any particular warehouse, you are advised to study both the advertisement and the editorial listing of that warehouse. Added information on most warehouses listed is maintained in DA's files. For more details on any warehouse listed, you are invited to write the editor.

ABBREVIATIONS

Abbreviations listed on the two following pages are used in all sections of the Warehouse Directory. Most are in common use throughout the industry. Others will be easily recognizable as natural simplifications of names, terms, and titles familiar to warehousemen and warehouse users.

The star (*) is the only symbol used in the book. Used in warehouse listings, it denotes that information furnished by the warehouseman has been attested by a notary public.

Listings and advertisements of public merchandise warehouses begin on Page 132. For listings and advertisements of refrigerated warehouses, please turn to Page 475.

ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES FOR PERSONALIZED SERVICE
CENTRAL CONTROL FOR EFFICIENT STORAGE AND DISTRIBUTION

We don't believe in traditional warehousing practice. We believe a warehouse should keep itself up to date with new and efficient business methods. Using modern communication systems, General operates 7 warehouses from a central control . . . our account executive system provides you with a person who is already familiar with your industry's needs and practices. The result . . . General's smooth efficient service gives you the same rigid control of storage and material handling you use in your own plant. Here's how the General system works. When your order is received it is checked and recorded by trained office personnel—our account executive arranges in advance for space and the facilities necessary to your particular kind of goods—the merchandise itself is received and stored by people skilled in handling freight. General's system makes a specialist out of every worker.

7 STRATEGICALLY LOCATED CHICAGO WAREHOUSES

ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES

Your account will be assigned to an executive familiar with your industry's warehousing needs. You always deal with a man who has authority and knowledge to adapt or devise special handling methods.

CENTRAL CONTROL

The central office does the recording, checking and billing for all warehouses. Our own teletype network maintains hourly contact with all buildings. This insures prompt response to your inquiries and inventory requests.

SPECIALIZED PERSONNEL

Each warehouse has a manager who sees that material is handled in accord with central office orders. Under him is a superintendent who organizes receiving, storing and shipping. This results in faster, more efficient handling.

TRACING AND STOCK CONTROL

Full knowledge of the exact location and quantity of goods in transit is vital to both warehouse and client. Here General's efficient communication system can be invaluable. Prompt accurate data on request or as regularly as you like.

COMPLETE DAMAGE PROTECTION

All goods are inspected on arrival and damaged merchandise reported at once or repacked per your specifications. Quick action in such cases means that all your stock is in salable condition. Each warehouse has burglar alarm and sprinkler system.

MODERN HANDLING EQUIPMENT

New equipment of the most modern type insures fast, safe handling of your material. General has 42 fork trucks of 2000 to 5000 pound lifting capacity. The most modern methods are employed; we use over 30,000 pallets.

RAIL AND TRUCK DOCKS

Each General Warehouse building has rail sidings and both rail and truck docks. All docks have overhead weather protection and several are completely enclosed. With these complete facilities General handled over 10,000 carloads last year.

COMPLETE DISTRIBUTION AND TRANSPORT SERVICE

We can pick up or deliver any size load within the Chicago switching district and commercial zone of Indiana. General owns over 50 pieces of trucking equipment. This extra service will greatly aid your Chicago distribution.

If you have a distribution problem write or call . . . ask for an account executive who handles your kind of goods—he'll be glad to help . . . or write for

for all distribution problems in INDIANA, ILLINOIS, KENTUCKY (and adjacent areas)

POOL CAR DISTRIBUTION

Strategically located only 75 miles from the center of population, a major service of Mead Johnson Terminal is pool car distribution for a broad geographic area. Modern handling techniques facilitate redistribution by truck lines reaching all points. Handling charges and transportation charges can be rendered in one bill.

Such services as a complete accounting system, stenciling, re-coopering, reconditioning, and a labeling service for private brand products mean maximum advantage of pool car distribution services.

Redistribution by air transport can be arranged.

RIVER-RAIL TERMINAL

This unusual facility consists of a cantilevered canopy extending over, and providing cover for, two barge slips and 6 railroad car spottings. Permits simultaneous barge loading and unloading with two overhead 10-ton electric cranes. Two switch tracks accommodate 35 railroad cars for continuous operations. Terminal provides fleet or dock space, tug service, stevedoring and open or closed storage. Served jointly by the C&E and L&N railroads with reciprocal switching, numerous truck lines and all barge lines on the Ohio River.

WAREHOUSING

Evansville—Indiana's second largest trading area, hub of major manufacturing and distribution for 500,000 people—is the home of America's most modern and unusual river-rail terminal and warehouse. Facilities include a 100,000 sq. ft. brick, steel and concrete warehouse building—all on one floor. No floor load limit. Rail siding accommodates 14 car spottings, serves 650' dock under canopy at warehouse. Eight entrances—20 truck doors, with docks—mean quick access, in or out. Careful, speedy, economical handling with two 10-ton overhead electric cranes and 2000 to 10,000 lb. capacity fork lift trucks, completely palletized.

Full protection by sprinklers, Autocall Waterflow Alarm, A.D.T. watchman service and manual fire alarm system allow low contents insurance rate of 11.4c per $100 valuation per annum. U.S. Custom Bonded Storage permits duty payment on imported merchandise as withdrawn.

OPEN YARD STORAGE

Four acres of easily accessible area at Mead Johnson Terminal, available to water and rail, is used for open yard storage. Served by several switch tracks with 15 car spottings and easily reached by trucks—this type storage means fast handling of stored commodities.

ESTABLISHED 1930

TO SERVE THE PORT

OF NEW ORLEANS

At the gateway of the midcontinent, with easy access by steamship, barge, rail and truck, stand 10 modern Gulf Shipperside warehouses . . . more than 200,000 square feet of covered and 300,000 square feet of open yard storage . . . public, state and U. S. customs bonded . . . served by a new 500 foot wharf, shipside tracks, a cotton compress, and the latest in pallets and materials handling equipment . . . Foreign Trade Zone Space . . .

Gulf's experience, know-how and historic integrity are behind this steadily growing business, founded on the satisfaction of clients today and over a period of 24 years.

These advantages, combined with important savings in handling costs, shipside freight rates and carrier tariff absorptions have made storers feel that in New Orleans, the best is Gulf Shipperside.

Government Competition

To The Editor

It is suggested that careful study and quick revision be given the present practice of the Government in cases of those men entering the armed forces. This practice is unjustly depriving concerns in the household storage business of storage that is rightfully theirs. It is also doing it at a cost which is far in excess of the cost or normal storage.

In the event that induction brings about the closing of the home, present practice calls for the pick-up, crating and shipping by freight to the Government warehouse where the goods are to be stored. In most cases the cost of crating and freight charges amounts to more than the entire cost of storage at the point where inductee lived. At time of discharge it usually must then be shipped back to point of origin and uncrated at still further excess cost.

We sincerely believe that our industry is more capable of proper handling than is the Government, and that a lot of damage would be eliminated if we might be allowed to handle this business. There is ample space available for this storage. In common justice and decency we should be allowed to do the work that we were organized to do—and are taxed for.

Still on the tentative schedule for discussion in an early issue of DA are Al Drake's remarks on "Getting the Government Out of Business"—a topic dear to the hearts of all warehousemen.—The Editor.

COMPACT

To press or pack closely. An agreement or covenant. The first describes our organization—closely knit. The second tells the story of our attitude toward clients. When you deal with us you have a covenant.

COMPLETE

Free from deficiency; entire; absolute; finished; to supply what is lacking. That's a complete definition of Long service. It covers every phase of modern warehousing and distribution as a matter of course.

COMPETENT

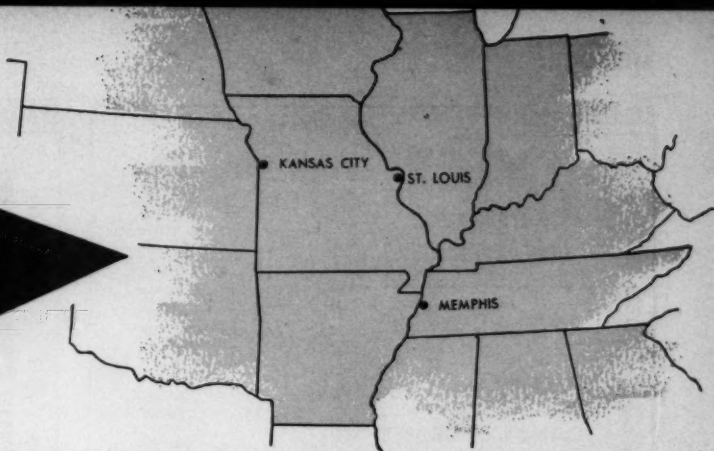

Fit; able; suitable; qualified; moderate. Fifty years of efficient, progressive organization makes this definition stick. It's exactly the basis of our theory of operation. We know that trained and experienced personnel round out an organization that can lay indisputable claim to the slogan—Compact, Complete, Competent.

Industry is growing apace along the Delaware. Already the area ranks with the world's greatest industrial concentrations. Our location at the gateway to Delaware Valley is of the greatest strategic importance to operators in this rich beehive of productivity and trade. It is served by the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad between New York and Philadelphia; and by the express highways of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Our modern fireproof, single-story brick and concrete buildings have high ceilings and concrete floors...

some 213,000 sq. ft. of floor space with vast unobstructed areas ideally adapted for industrial storage. Insurance rates are low. There are tailgate loading platforms, with additional truck-loading facilities within the buildings. The steel-loading area has a 5-ton traveling crane. The four railroad sidings have 25-car placement.

Along with these unique physical facilities we offer you the unparalleled combination of services provided by all Tidewater Chain units. Contact J. A. Lehman, Vice-President, today, outlining your needs.

DUNKIRK

NEW YORK

This strategically situated property—most recent addition to the Chain of Tidewater Terminals and Inland Warehouses—is on the New York Central's main line between Buffalo and Cleveland. It is a subsidiary of The Keystone Warehouse Company of Buffalo.

It offers storage-in-transit privileges on a large variety of commodities. Costly switching charges at destination points are eliminated. The modern, high ceilinged brick and steel structure is sprinklered. You get fast, expert handling of your products with mechanized equipment.

The property is served by a New York Central siding, under cover, with 20-car capacity. There is reciprocal switching with the Pennsylvania, Nickel Plate, and Erie Railroads. It may well be that we can serve your distributional needs at this intermediate point between East and West. Write or call us for complete information.

LET "NATIONAL" BE THE CONNECTING LINK

Above is an actual photograph of four buildings owned outright by us—A long city block of valuable property constituting part of the financial responsibility behind this organization.

For more than a quarter of a century these buildings have been storehouses for merchandise produced in the United States and throughout other parts of the world.

Since its inception the National Warehouse Corporation has, through the years, continuously served its original patrons—a clear indication of good customer relations.
